SAKÉ BY THE GLASS / CARAFE

Saké is an alcoholic beverage brought to us from 3rd century Japan and crafted from rice. The four crucial elements involved in brewing saké begin with pure water, yeast, fine rice and koji. Beyond that, the technical skill needed lies with the Toji (head brewer) and the limitations of local land and weather conditions. Mizumi is pleased to offer over 120 different types of premium saké. All are served at optimal temperature. We offer many thanks & kanpai.

DASSAI

The Dassai philosophy is very simple: To create delicious saké that moves people beyond borders and languages, and to stake everything for this purpose. While we cherish the effort of our 200 craftsmen, we do not cling to tradition. Nor do we deny the use of the latest technologies and data. Unafraid of change for what truly matters, we try all means, continually evolving our taste.

Since the late 1600s, saké has been made at the current location of Dassai brewery. It is unique among saké breweries as it solely produces Junmai Daiginjo, a specific type of saké, using only one variety of saké rice, Yamadanishiki. The brewery is located in a mountainous area where very soft water from underground is available. This soft water, low in mineral content, has the effect of slowly advancing fermentation, which in turn can bring out the attractive qualities of Dassai such as its fragrant aroma and clean sweetness.

JUNMAI GINJO 純米吟醸

PREMIUM SAKÉ

Junmai ginjo/Ginjo saké is brewed with rice with a rice polishing rate of at least 60%. This means the outside 40% of the rice has been gently polished away. This saké is a special and painstaking brewing process where fermentation proceeds at lower temperatures and for longer periods, and pressing is often done by hand. This extra effort produces a saké that is layered and complex, light, and fragrant.

BREWMASTER'S ART

The rice for these saké have been polished at least 50 percent or more. The brewing process is even more labor intensive than Ginjo, which results in saké that is even lighter and more fragrant and fruity than typical Ginjo.. very much "hands-on" brewing.
